COMMUNITY MEETING AUGUST 15

Thursday, August 15 the Matthews Community Meeting will be held at the Public Library, 230 Matthews Station Street, downtown Matthews, beginning at 6 p.m. The program, "Voices of Tank Town" is being held in conjunction with the popular current museum exhibit Tank Town: A Good Place to Live. Four former/current residents of Tank Town have been invited to participate in a panel discussion for the meeting. The panel will share their remembrances of growing up in Tank Town during the 1950s and 60s. This community meeting is free and open to the public, however seating is limited. To reserve your seat call Becky 704-846-6693.

NOTE: The Tank Town exhibit will remain on display until Saturday, October 5. Please make plans to visit the Museum to view the exhibit.

Star of St. Matthews Lodge #566 - 124 Morris Road - Crestdale

In 1925, the Star of St. Matthews Lodge #566 received its charter from the Grand Lodge of North Carolina, Prince Hall Affiliation. Like most lodges in communities, Lodge #566 is a blue lodge, meaning that it is a local Masonic Lodge. African-American Christopher Columbus "Budd" Potts (1894-1963), was the first Worthy Master, or president of the lodge.

On October 20, 1928, trustees of the lodge—Potts, Crawford Neptune Patterson (1877-1943), William M. B. Reid (1877-1940), Daniel Marshall Maxwell (1878-1948), and Ranson Lake (1850-1930)—purchased an acre of land and a two-story concrete-masonry building on what is now Morris Road in Tank Town from the county Board of Education for $500.00. Dedicated space for lodges was important to facilitate activities as well as recruitment of new members. Star of St. Matthews Lodge #566 is unusual in Mecklenburg County for having its own property for such a long period of time.

But while the lodges in cities such as Charlotte pulled their membership from the middle and upper class black elite of those areas, rural lodges served a different demographic. Many residents of Tank Town worked as sharecroppers or laborers. Some found work on the railroad or as service workers for local white families. Robert Kirkpatrick was the janitor at the Matthews School, Calvin Boyd worked at a nearby brickyard, and Jesse Johnson Bell (a woman) was a cook for Dr. Thomas Neely Reid.

In 1930, Budd Potts, lodge president and a farmer by trade, opened a fish market at 118 East Charles Street. His was the only Matthews store to offer fresh fish, delivered by train from Wilmington. He made fish sandwiches for customers on the pot-belly stove used to heat the store. Manley Clyburn, an African-American barber, cut hair in the corner of the store. Manley built houses in Tank Town and eventually moved his barbering business there. Bud Potts continued to sell fish until 1955 and was the only African-American business owner in downtown Matthews at that time.

In 1963, the name Tank Town officially changed to Crestdale. In the 1980s, Sam Boyd and other Crestdale community leaders worked to have Crestdale annexed by the Town of Matthews. In 1988, Crestdale became part of the Town and, for the first time, residents had access to town services.

The Star of St. Matthews Lodge #566 has been designated a local historic landmark. There is more Lodge information on the Charlotte Mecklenburg Historic Landmarks Commission website www.landmarkscommission.org
